CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

Wherever a Church steeple rises to pierce the blue skies of daylight, and commune with the stars of night — there is Peace. And as we enter our Church this Christmastide, the full spirit — meaning — and essence of the word shall enter our beings and inspire each of us to fulfill our own small roles in achieving for all time Peace on Earth: Good Will to Men.

Going Up

We heard the ultimate in inflationary trends this week. A father was heard saying to his son: "For five cents I'd take you over my knee and give you an awful thrashing." We can remember the time when it used to be only two cents.

Endowment

Andover is $2.51 richer than it was a week ago. For years the town didn't realize that it had lost a $2.51 tool, so the $2.00 bill and the seventeen 3c stamps that were mailed anonymously to Thaxter Eaton, Town Treasurer, this week is just so much gravy for the town. Accompanying the surprise donation was the following letter:

"Mr. Eaton,

Put this in the free cash. It pays for a tool that was taken home by permission a number of years ago and on account of sickness and neglect was never returned.

Sincerely,

A Citizen."

This will result in a net decrease in the tax rate of — well, you figure out what proportion of sixteen or seventeen thousand $2.51 is.

A Friend in Need

The local stores have been reporting one of their best Christmas seasons in years. The chances are that the last couple of days before Christmas will find them busier than ever.

One often hears, about this time of year, someone say: "I looked all over Boston for such and such and then I came back home and found it right in so and so's store." That, of course, could happen any time in the year, for our local merchants do a pretty good job of keeping supplied with the things that we need. Furthermore, if they don't have them, they make every effort to secure them, and they certainly show a keener interest in your needs than any clerk in a big city store would ever show.

The local merchant is too often the one you'd go to as a last resort, whereas he should be the first. "If you can't get it at home, try somewhere else" should be the motto of Andover's shoppers instead of "If you can't get it somewhere else try at home." There is a natural, human feeling that the fellow who lives next to you is just "small time." He's a neighbor, a friend, and of pretty much the same business stature as you are yourself. All that he lacks is the aura of prestige that distance and size lends to stores and firms in Boston and other big cities.

You'd go to him when you're in a rush for something; you go to him when you can't find something somewhere else; why not go to him first all the time? It would certainly pay you in time saved and in the personal interest that your home-town fellow-citizen will show in your needs.

A Third Party

It has been suggested to us several times this week that an editorial should be written about last week's action on the part of the Andover Police Relief Association in disbanding and dividing the Relief Fund up among both the active and inactive officers. There apparently was a good deal of hot feeling between both groups which is to be regretted, of course. However, it is something of a private squabble with the townspeople's only interest being in the fund. The two squabbling factions, from what the people on the street feel, certainly should have kept in mind that a good part of the money in that fund was donated by people who bought tickets to the annual ball and by merchants who bought advertisements in the program for the annual ball. They did it for what they thought was relief, and it is not setting too well with any of them to realize that each officer and each alumnus officer received from the fund an allotment of something over $400.00.

The present officers, it is understood, are putting theirs back into a new Relief Fund which will be used only for active officers. Those who originally gave the money would feel a great deal better if the other inactive officers, regardless of the justice of their having been thrown out of the old association, had formed a new association of their own and had kept that part of the fund intact to use for relief purposes when relief was actually needed. They can have their own little quarrels and refuse to play with each other if they want to, but they must remember that the public is a third party with a very justifiable interest in what happens to the money.

Getting Santa Mental Over December 25

Santa Claus has been expanding with happiness while preparing for Christmas this year and when Santa expands it is inflation of the greatest magnitude. His customary circumference has been 72" (with a slight decrease during recent years) and that is a perfect 36 if you multiply it by two. He may even multiply it by three by December 25.

During the past years he has been very short handed. Previously he had a horde of helpers, consisting of all his relatives, all Mrs. Claus' relatives and all the relatives of the relatives, including cousins once and twice removed. Actually they weren't removed very far, as they all made their abode in the Polar region that is Santa's domain. After 1942, about 90% of the relatives left the snow covered land and contributed their skill in manufacture to different war plants and many of them went into the service. It was the first time any of them had worn anything except fur-trimmed red woolen suits, and when they put on khaki or Navy blue, they looked very much like everyone else. As far as it is known, their true ancestry was never discovered, although cousin Holly had a narrow squeak one day. He and his pals were having a discussion about "Kilroy," that fantastic character who went every place and did everything before anyone else, and Holly made the mistake of remarking that he thought it was possible for one person to be endowed with magical powers that would make Kilroy's feats possible. A skeptic from New York raised one heavy eyebrow and squinted from under it at the naive cousin Jolly. "Next thing you'll be telling us you believe in Santa Claus."

Jolly was stuck for a few minutes because he knew he would have to offer some kind of proof for any statement he made, so he asked, "What would you like Santa to do for your Christmas—just supposing there was one?"

A dreamy look came into the fellow's eyes and he said, "I'd like my k'd to get an electric train for Christmas, one that would cover the living room floor and that would have signals, bridges, a car barn and all the fixin's."

Jolly knew that that was almost an impossible wish because since Uncle Merry, who used to make all the electric trains for Santa, was now in the Transportation Corps, it looked as if gifts like that would be a scarce item that year.

However, about a month after Christmas, this fellow came dashing up to Jolly, waving an envelope. "Tony got his electric train for Christmas," he hollered, "just like I wanted him to have. It's a second hand one, but it's in perfect condition. Funny thing, though," he added, "the letter doesn't mention where it came from."

That was two years ago and now Jolly is back in Santaland and is training under Uncle Merry so that he can learn to make trains and planes and all those things that people haven't had for a long time. It will probably take quite a while for the two of them to make enough to go around, but they're getting there, and that's just one of the reasons why Santa's so gay this year.

He has all his helpers back with him except one, and that's Penrod Quin, a second cousin of Jolly's whom everyone calls Pen for short. This Pen Quin, who expected to be back with Santa long before Christmas, has found himself signed up with the Byrd expedition, because of his vast experience in polar climates, and he's steaming toward the Antarctic right now. Of course, he won't be going anywhere near Santaland, but at least he will be in the right climate and wearing furs again. He crossed the Equator early in the week for the first time, and don't think he didn't get initiated by King Neptune. Pen is a good sport and he didn't so much mind the stunts as he minded the heat. One thing Pen Quin can't stand, and that's heat!

But I am getting away from my story about Santa and how happy he is. He keeps laughing all the time, and all his helpers are so gay that when they are putting faces on dolls or toy animals they just can't resist painting on a big broad grin, and if you get a doll for Christmas with a pleased expression, you'll know that it was made in 1946.

All the relatives are planning to put their heads together and make something nice for Santa's own Christmas present. Usually he doesn't want any gift other than the happiness of the people he visits Christmas Eve, but the workers are ganging up on him this year and are going to give him something, anyway. They appointed a committee to look into the matter, and the chairman, Aunt (Hedda) Time, reported her finding just last night. She said, in part, that when she was giving Santa the statistics on how many children were to be visited this year and how many presents were already made and even wrapped up, Santa just threw back his head and laughed and laughed. He laughed so hard the buttons flew right off his coat and his good leather belt that he has worn now for eight years broke in two. "It was getting too tight, anyway," she said.

Now everyone is scurrying around looking for spare leather to contribute to Santa's new belt that is going to have a silver buckle with "S. C." engraved upon it. So it looks as if Santa Claus is going to have the happiest Christmas in a long time—and that goes for you, too. Right?

Permanent Repeat Performance

Half an hour before the Christmas concert began last Sunday night in Cochran chapel you couldn't park an automobile within five hundred yards, while Andover music lovers continued to climb up the hill and the Lawrence bus unloaded its quota. Whether it was the rare reputation of our singers; the restrained but persistent emotional work; the happy idea of reminding us that it was the concluding event of our delightful Tercentenary year, or the compelling appeal of Handel's "Messiah," we don't know. Perhaps a combination of all.

Thus for the second time the Andover Tercentenary Chorus, based on the smooth singing of the Andover Male Choir, attracted an audience beyond the capacity of Cochran Chapel, which we believe is 1100. At last summer's concert the late comers could listen on the lawns through doors and windows, but due to the cold of last Sunday night many reluctantly went home. Those who know music better than we do describe it all as "magnificent" and, except for the absence of an orchestral background, equal in brilliance to the traditional yearly presentation of Boston's Handel and Haydn Society. The direction of Mr. Collins was competent, as usual; the soloists of rare quality, while the playing of the organists, Messrs. Wilkinson and Sjostrom, was just beautiful; they alternated between the instruments by some pleasant little play of their own.

Singers, we understand from one of them, get together just "because we like to sing." Far from a hardship, they love the rehearsals and either openly, or secretly, regret the end of the period culminating in the public concert. Frankly they hope for a large audience. They swear they sing better to a full house.

We, like many others in the community, hope we are correct in assuming that the Andover Tercentenary Choir is a permanent institution. We suspect that among its organizers the idea of permanence is already rooted and that last Sunday's performance was arranged as a public test. The answer has been given. If we are permitted a suggestion, we hope that the "Messiah" hereafter will be a yearly traditional event in Andover, and with the gracious co-operation of the Academy folks, at the Cochran Chapel. Aptly enough, this tradition will have had its birth in our Tercentenary year; the choir has the unique advantage of having as its base an always-trained group of male singers in the Andover Male Choir; thrice winners of the competitive test of the New England Federation of Male Choirs. We sometimes wonder if Andover fully realizes the importance of this honor. And we must not forget that singers from Lawrence, North Andover and Methuen rush to Andover after hasty suppers for ten weeks to make both the chorus and choir a success.

Let us also ask the officers to consider an Easter concert yearly. For the rest of us I think we can assure the group that the attendance will always be to capacity, and it is up to the promoters to work out some plan and tell us how we can relieve the individual singers of the obligation to pay for their own music.

SANTA HAS MANY APPOINTMENTS IN ANDOVER

Santa Claus has been visiting in town quite a bit in the last two weeks and has left his facsimile in life size on the front porch of Dr. Stowers' home as an indication that he is staying nearby to see that his friends in Andover, young and old, will have a very Merry Christmas.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Santa was joyfully greeted at the Free church Tuesday night by about 60 members of the upstairs Sunday School classes. He brought with him candy, oranges and a gift for each.

The program began and ended with carol singing and slides on the Life of Christ were shown.

He will be back again on Saturday afternoon to entertain and give gifts to the Primary department. Mrs. George Adams, in charge of the arrangements, is planning two hours of games and singing at which refreshments will be served.

Parents and children are invited to attend the Christmas party for the Nursery School and Kindergarten departments of the West church Sunday School. It will be held in the vestry on Monday afternoon at 3:00.

STORY TELLING

On Tuesday, December 24th, there will be a listening program at the library in the Young People's Room at 9:00 A. M. At this time there will be Christmas stories told by Miss Lane, after which the group will tune in on Mr. Cronan's story, broadcast over WBZ. Everyone is welcome.

POST-XMAS PARTY FOR POST AUXILIARY

Santa Claus is expected to arrive at the V. F. W. rooms at 3:15 Saturday afternoon as he has a special appointment with the children of the members. He's not just dropping in for a family chat either but will have a pack on his back that he's planning to empty.

The auxiliary is planning a program of games and entertainment and will serve refreshments. If Santa has time, he may have some too.

SANTA HAS INVITATION TO V. F. W. PARTY

The V. F. W. auxiliary will wait until after Christmas for their holiday party when the culinary problems that go with preparing their Christmas dinner will be scored away and they can relax and enjoy the get-together. It will start off with a catered supper in the V. F. W. rooms at 6:00 and entertainment will follow. Santa is trying to postpone his return to the North country long enough to take in the event but if his reindeer start champing at the bit, he'll leave presents behind for all.

Counterspy Jim Berger

In "Swordfisherman Jim," Jim Ellis learned about a business of the sea; in "Subchaser Jim" he joined its battles. Now in "Counterspy Jim" we have a story of the young lieutenant (j.g.) trying to discover the reason for repeated attacks on certain convoys.

There's no need to say anything about this beyond the fact that the author wrote "My Friend Flicka."

Hiroshima Hersey

The story of six human beings who survived the explosion of the atom bomb over Hiroshima. This book is the complete text of the report which appeared in August in the New Yorker, covering one entire issue of that magazine.

Lost Men Of American History Holbrook

From the history of America of 1620 to Pearl Harbor, Mr. Holbrook has brought out interesting and almost forgotten facts about outstanding people who have never had their just dues. Among them are David Bushnell, inventor of a primitive submarine, Ashmun, founder of Liberia and Colt, the revolver man. This book is as interesting as some of the best fiction on the market.

The Party Table Powers

If you plan a party or have been asked to help with one and to supply new ideas, this is the book for you. The author believes that the getting ready is as much fun as the occasion itself, and outlines attractive table settings, place cards, good centerpieces, tricks, etc.

Grandfather Objects Wilder

Grandfather is different, there is no question about that. He's back again, and there's a lot of fun in reading about his adventures and inventions. You'll be sure to want this if you read "Bounty Of The Wayside."

Is it to world order or the chaos of a new world war? Sumner Welles the statesman and outstanding authority on things political, tries to answer this question which should be asked by more of us. He surveys the happenings and aims in Europe, Asia, Near East and Latin America in recent times and dares to predict the future of the United Nations' peace aims. Mr. Welles does not hesitate to define the errors in our foreign policy and outlines a course for us if we hope to mend our ways.

Our Cover

Against a background of Christmas music sung by the Stowe Choral Society, the Bible story of the Savior's birth was portrayed in pageant by the pupils of the Central schools Sunday afternoon in Memorial Auditorium. Our cover shows only a portion of the young singers wearing vestments and angel costumes. At the far left is Mary, Marilyn Davis, and Joseph, Richard Hudgins. The reader for the pageant was Ruth Sullivan.

Following the pageant, a one-act play, "Why the Chimes Rang," was also enacted by the school children.

Miss Barrett has already received oral and written commendations of both performances from members of the large audience who enjoyed the program.

The Night Before Christmas Dedicated By Male Choir

By J. K. PEARSON

"Twas the night before Christmas and all thru the town,
Male voices were singing, some up and some down.
There were tenors and basses and baritones strong;
The volume was right but the notes were all wrong.
The townsmen were angry at the unearthly din;
"Do something about it," they cried, "it's a sin."
When out from his duties of town and of state,
Came the maestro, Ev Collins, we hope not too late.
"Come tenors, come basses, come barrys," he said.
And the noise that they made would fain raise the dead.
Ev shook his grey head and wrinkled his brow,
Turned to the piano and asked, "What next now?"
"Don't like it at all, their voices don't tell."
"You're right," said Raymond. "They're all shot to h--l."
"Amen," said Rev. Campbell, "let's get out of there."
"We must," said the maestro, "or I'll have grey hair.
Let's start it once more, and let's do it right.
I don't want to hear it, I want it so light."
Jim raised his voice, the music inspired,
"To blazes with taxes" — Oh, oh, you'll get fired.
Then the wails and the groans of the lesser elite
Roared in crescendo, heard out on Main street.
Ev raved and roared till his grey shaking mane
Was waving and whipping like a stalk of ripe grain.
Then silence as the maestro now ceased to rave;
"It's the basses," cried Carl. "You're lying," said Dave.
All joking aside, Ev does some great work
With men from all walks of life who never shirk.
Some men are from business, and some from the Hill,
Some from the professions and some from the mill.
They'll say, when asked to express their desire:
"Let me sing with Ev Collins leading the choir."

Punchard To Play New York Team

Basketball

Through the efforts of the Punchard Varsity Club and its advisor, Mr. McKinery, arrangements have been made to play a yearly basketball game with a New York high school team. Permission has been granted by the local school authorities to have Babylon High School, Babylon, Long Island, New York, come to Andover this coming March 1. Next year the Punchard team will go to Babylon for a return game.

Mr. McKinery, the Punchard coach, has been in touch with the coach at Babylon, Mr. Walter Williams, an ex-Springfield College man, and all arrangements have been made. They will bring ten boys and will arrive in Andover Friday, February 28. The boys will be taken care of in the homes of the Punchard players. The game will be played Saturday evening, March 1, and the New York boys will leave for home the following day. The same plans have been agreed upon for the return game in New York the following year.

Babylon is a residential town of about 10,000 people, very nearly the size of Andover, and is located on the south shore of Long Island about 22 miles out of New York City. A large number of the people are daily commuters to the country's largest metropolis.

Babylon High compares in size with Punchard quite favorably, although the New York school has a slightly larger enrollment. Mr. Williams, the coach there, has been the coach for the past seven years, and has been very successful in all of his coaching. Before coming to Andover, Mr. McKinery was, for a two year period, a teacher and assistant to Mr. Williams.

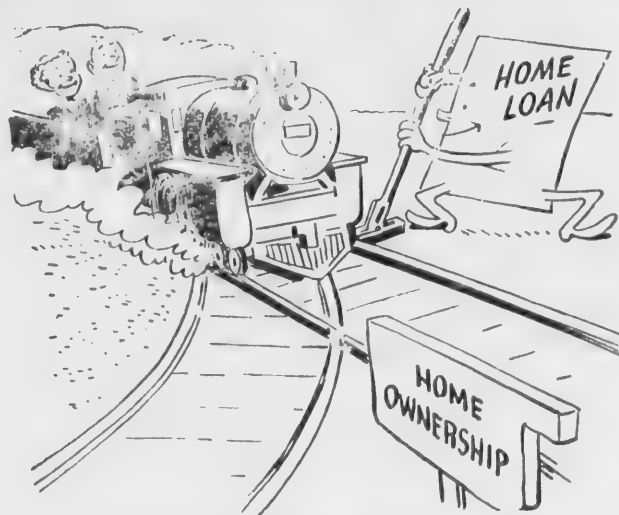

The game is being sponsored by the Varsity Club and is an added attraction to the regular season. An attempt will be made to have the Junior High School play a preliminary game with the Punchard J. V.s. The admission price will be 50c, with general dancing following the games.

Blanchard Tops Referee Record

On Monday night Mr. Blanchard refereed the basketball games played by the Church League. Those teams participating were: Free and St. Joseph churches, senior group; Christ and Ballardvale Congregational churches, intermediate group; and South and West churches, junior group. Junior High boys on these teams were: Robert Ness, Clifford Lawrence, Hilton Cormey, John Ness, and David McMillan and Sidney Watson in the intermediates, and Richard Graves, Russell Johnson and Douglas Adkins in the juniors.

Both Mr. Blanchard and Mr. McKinery are giving their time to referee in this most worthwhile project, and they act as instructors as well. It is regrettable that any cause so worthwhile as this is not patronized and supported by the public as it should be. If more financial support is not given to these games it may be necessary to give them up.

There will be no League games on Monday, December 23.

Receives Degree In Occ. Therapy

On Saturday, December 14th, Miss Helen Sedgwick Barss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sedgwick Barss of Hidden Field, was awarded diploma from the Boston School of Occupational Therapy at Commencement Exercises held at the Second Church in Boston.

Speakers at the exercises were Dr. A. William Reggio, Senior Surgeon and Director of Physical Medicine, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., and Rev. Dana McLean Greeley of Arlington Street Church, Boston.

Prior to entering professional training Miss Barss graduated from Abbot Academy, and attended Bryn Mawr College.

An Open Special Delivery Letter To Nick

Dear Santa,

This will refer to my previous letter of December 16, in which I stated that I would like you to deliver a pair of skis, 6 ft. in length to my address on December 25. I trust that you have not already filled my order and that you will be able to replace the skis with another more useful item.

Please do not consider this a criticism of the skis you brought me five years ago. They were fine, although not too well versed in the direction they were expected to take. Too often they were transversed on the down grade through no fault of your manufacturers. They crossed me up once too often at Conway last season, and half of the left one is still draping that picturesque tree that stands off to the side half way down the slope. (It didnt always stand quite so far to the side.) I am fully recovered now and plan to engage in the sport again this year—weather permitting.

However, at the present time there is no indication that the weather will permit, which explains the reversal of my order. Tell me, would you possibly have any more of those snappy folding umbrellas? If worst comes to best and it should snow someday, instead of rain, I can try saddling myself to a couple of the spokes and gliding over the trails that way.

Your past selections have been appreciated.

Yours truly,

LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN AT THE MONASTERY SUNDAY

FRANCISCAN MONASTERY

The Franciscan Fathers of St. Francis Seminary, West Andover, will celebrate the Christmas holidays with their traditional display of lights on the campus and with a very artistic crib of Our Lord in their chapel. Since St. Francis was the first to represent the Christmas crib in its modern form in the mountain town of Greccio, Italy, the sons of the Poverello are continuing this grand tradition at St. Francis Seminary. This year many more lights will be added to the 15,000 of former years. The Chapel will be the center of the celebration which annually attracts thousands of people from near and far. The large sanctuary of the Chapel will portray the birth of the Savior. A new set of nearly life size figures will adorn the crib, and an altar will be incorporated into the scene in order to get the original effect of Greccio. The public is invited to visit the campus and to see the Chapel. Plans have been made to open the display of lights on Sunday evening, Dec. 22nd., and to continue until the 15th. of January.

Whither The Weather

"Snow is on the way" the weatherman said. "It might very well be a white Christmas." Seems to me it was Monday that such imp-propaganda was first offered as a plum to all those who had contracted with Santa for a sled. As the English would say, "You had it." The glistening transparent icing that covered the street on Wednesday must have been it.

The B. P. W. were up bright and early in the morning trying to take the last syllable out of snow-fall and succeeded with quite a bit of speed as traffic through Andover was able to resume its forward motion quite early in the day. The Lawrence buses were forced to hold up their schedule a couple of hours because of the condition beyond Andover's limits so cutting down the shopping-days-until for gift choosers and playing havoc with the working schedules of business firms whose employees were two hours late.

It would have made a good prelude to a heartening snow fall. Too bad it rained.

The report this morning was "partly cloudy and cloudy." Now, what could be clearer than that?

Holiday Formal

Now that your shopping list has been completed (?) you owe yourself a Christmas present, and a very pleasant one that would end the old year on a gay note and at the same time have a lasting significance would be a ticket to the Punchard Alumni formal dance to be held in Crystal ballroom on December 26. The proceeds from the dance will be contributed to the Memorial fund with which the association will permanentize the names of Punchard men who lost their lives in World War II.

Many out-of-towners will cross the borders to attend the affair and to enjoy the company of old friends who used to help them with their algebra. It will be a lot of fun, so plan to slip into your best bib and tucker on the 26th.

Frankie Kahn's band will provide the swing, and it's rumored that there will be prizes and a crown for the queen.

Christmas Seals

Seal Sale Going Well

If the Christmas Seal returns continue to be as good in the next two weeks as they have been so far, the Sale this year will enable the Essex County Health Association to expand their program in eradicating TB.

Last year the Association received a total of $47,480 from the sale of Seals, of which Andover contributed $2,080.

Of the total amount received by the Essex County Health Association, 85 per cent is used for work in its territory. The 15 per cent left is for research, advice, and supplies given to the Association by the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League and the National Tuberculosis Association.

The work of the county association includes a program of case-finding by means of X-ray surveys in industry and tuberculin testing in high schools. The objective is to get early and unsuspected cases of TB under treatment when cure is most certain.

At Essex Sanatorium, Christmas Seals entirely support the rehabilitation program and a library for the enjoyment of patients.

By various ways, the association disseminates information to the public on how TB may be eradicated.

Working in close relation with Essex Sanatorium, the association cooperates with local health and school authorities as well as with the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

Two Local Boys Awarded Letters

Two local boys received sports letters at Governor Dummer Academy's annual Christmas Dinner held Tuesday evening in the Lang Gymnasium.

John E. Gallagher, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roswell Gallagher, 51 Highland road, who was a member of the junior varsity soccer team, on the Honor Roll and a member of the Board of the school magazine received a soccer letter.

George E. Fraser, 68 Magnolia avenue, who was a member of the pony football team received his football letter.

Mr. William G. Avierett, educational editor of the New York Herald Tribune was the toastmaster, and the feature speaker was Dr. William E. Park, president of the Northfield Schools, Northfield, Mass.

Presentation Of "Messiah" Acclaimed By Large Audience

If it hadn't been for the man that sat in back of me, I would have said that the "Messiah" went off without a hitch Sunday night.

It had everything in its favor. To begin with, the director alluded any possibility of a jinx by scheduling the dress rehearsal for Saturday night instead of Friday the 13th so the last rehearsal went off as desired—terrible and that, according to the Male Choir's long precedent and the Tercentenary chorus' shorter history, usually adds up to a super public performance.

Then about 1200 townspeople and some outer-towners began arriving at Cochran chapel not at 8 o'clock, the scheduled time of the concert, but at 7:00—to be sure of a good seat. (Just incidentally, precautions of this type are not always successful as I can verify because at 7:45 I found myself neatly ensconced in back of one of the broad graceful pillars that add to the beauty of the chapel interior but not to the visibility from the tenth row left center. I don't know what I should have done if it hadn't been for the play by play description considerably contributed by the man who sat in back of me.)

Over a hundred singers, members of the Tercentenary chorus and the Male choir, filed on to the stage at 8:00 and their faces registered surprise and then pleasure at the sight of the large and interested audience. The man in back of me gave me a pretty good idea of where the various voices were sitting although to my position in back of the pillar the voices came in a delightful harmonious blend. Also, his appreciated information made it possible for me to tell whether it was Mr. Sjostrom or Mr. Wilkinson at the organ without checking the program and to both musicians should go a generous amount of praise for their part in the program.

The man in back of me was in accord with my opinion that the selections by the full chorus were especially fine reaching their height in "Hallelujah." The Male Choir did not seem quite up to its usual perhaps because the members were not standing in their customary positions in relation to each other. Opinions vary in regard to the soloists; some liked them and some thought their voices were not adaptable to the oratorical music of the "Messiah." The man in back of me was beginning to get a little restless by that time and so his expositions were apt to be prejudiced. He was at his seat at 7:25 so that the evening seemed longer to him than the actual length of the program. For the most part, though, his comments sounded pretty authentic and at one point in the program he leaned forward and stage whispered, "OW-w-w, did you hear that sour note?" Maybe the pillar blocked the sound, because I didn't hear it, but if it was there it was the only hitch in the concert.

Andover has had many occasions to feel proud of its accomplishments and Sunday night it could feel justifiably pleased with its acquirements in the field of music.

The mixed chorus that has twice accredited itself in well attended concerts during the Tercentenary year may become another town institution if the number of people who enjoy singing and who enjoy listening is any criterion for a forecast. Let's hope so. Music well-directed and well-sung is something we could do with more of. Just ask the man who sat in back of me.

Again this year we wish all our customers and friends joy and happiness for the holiday season.

Christmas Bonus Awarded at Tyer

A bonus is being paid at the Tyer Rubber Company, December 20th, to all factory and clerical employees on the payroll on the date of payment who have worked for the company more than sixty working days in 1946. The bonus will consist of 2% of each eligible individual's earnings during the year ended November 10th, 1946.

For those who have worked a full year, the bonus will amount to about an extra week's pay.

New Water System Given Initial Test

A new water system was given its initial test this week with trouble developing only at Cutler road, where a cracked pipe threw a geyser of water into the air. The Weston and Sampson inspector had checked the pipes, but apparently something went wrong during or since the laying of one piece of pipe. The town department is now repairing the damage. Town Engineer Gilliard states that in such cases it is the town's responsibility, and not the contractor's.

When the line was opened up the water pressure was 110 and it was pumping at one million and one quarter gallons per 24-hour period. After opening up the new line the pressure went down to 105 and the capacity up to one million and one half.

To Add Suction Line at Haggetts

The Board of Public Works decided Tuesday night to install a new suction line at Haggett's Pond. This will eliminate the present necessity of drawing all the town's water supply through one suction line and will also permit the joint operation of both the electric and steam turbine pumps.

Weston and Sampson will draw up the engineering plans.

The Board plans to buy the materials immediately, with the balance from Article 5, the new water system article.

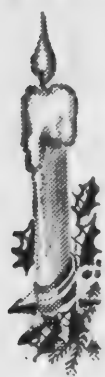

NO. B. P. W. SALARY ACTION

The Board of Public Works took no action at its Tuesday night meeting on the recent request of the department employees for a $500 increase, time and one-half for overtime, and a sick leave adjustment.

And A MERRY CHRISTMAS

There is an air of merriment and of holiday spirit pervading the classrooms and corridors of the Junior High School this week, quite different from that of any year since pre-war days. Homerooms are gay with brightly decorated Christmas trees and boughs of fir and balsam which gracefully festoon doorways and shelves and nooks and crannies. Simple, unheard programs consisting of Christmas stories and games are being planned, and a very pleasant forty-five minutes will be spent during the fourth period on Friday. These home room parties will be informal, inexpensive, and unplanned. There will be no exchanging of gifts, and if there are any rooms in which refreshments are to be served, the members of those rooms will go to the cafeteria for that purpose. The "very old" and sedate ninth graders will go to the Music Room and there they will listen to the reading of the Dickens Christmas Carol and sing Christmas carols. Like Tiny Tim, the entire Junior High Schools says to all, "God bless you, everyone!"

Craft-Work

On display in the trophy case on the second floor are samples of work done in Mr. Hinckley's Shop class. There are some very interesting and well-made articles such as neck-tie racks, book ends, napkin holders, candle holders, trays, shelves, toys, etc. Those receiving these things should feel very, very proud of the craftsmanship displayed in the making of them.

Attend Civic League Meeting

Fifteen members of the ninth grade were most fortunate in being able to attend a meeting of the Students' Committee on State Affairs of the Massachusetts Civic League held at the Old South Meeting House in Boston, on December 12. Robert Abboud, chairman of the Committee, told those in attendance what the League stood for and explained the functions of the Students' Committee. Edmund J. Blake, Jr., Secretary, called the roll and every school in the League was represented. The Honorable Arthur W. Coolidge, recently elected Lieutenant-Governor, was the first speaker and told the assembly what young people were doing to prepare themselves to become voters and stressed the fact that as they were turning into voting age they should know about the State and State affairs. Senator Burton F. Faulkner and Representative Charles E. Shepard conducted a question period and for about an hour answered all sorts of questions concerning state politics. The next meeting will be held during the February vacation, in the morning rather than during the afternoon. It will be held in the State House and some students may be allowed to participate in the debate on the question as to whether or not people as young as eighteen should be allowed the right to vote.

Three people drove the young people in from Andover in their cars. They were: Mrs. Blanchard, Mr. Owen Hinckley, and Mr. William McDonald.

(This report was written by Joseph Ratyna, president of the Student Government Association. Joe attends these meetings regularly, and is accompanied by Mr. McDonald of the faculty.)

Prize Dancers

On Friday, December 13, the school dance was held in the gym with Mr. Dunn acting as Master of Ceremonies. Prizes were given for the best dancers of the fox-trot and a spot dance. The winners were: Lolita Machon and Louis Hamilton, fox-trot, and Nancy Penwell and Raeburn Hathaway, spot dance. Both couples received records of popular dance recordings. Refreshments consisting of cakes and ice cream were served in the cafeteria.

Attend Prize Speaking

The ninth grade was invited by the High School to attend the Goldsmith Prize Speaking Contest in the auditorium on Thursday of last week. This favor was appreciated by all who attended, and they decided that all of the speakers were most interesting. They sincerely hope that it will be their privilege to be able to return the compliment and invite the members of the High School to something which they will sponsor.

Basketball

Basketball practice was called for Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week but due to the very sudden illness of Mr. Dimlich, the coach, Tuesday's practice was cancelled. Mr. Dimlich was absent from school on Wednesday, also.

Xmas Program

It was gratifying, indeed, to see so many parents in attendance at the Christmas program on Sunday afternoon in the Auditorium. It was sponsored by the P. T. A. The program was as follows:
A Christmas Pageant Stowe School Solo—Genevieve Murray, accompanied on the piano by Miss Miriam Sweeney High School

Christmas Assembly

Parents and guests are invited to attend the Punchard High School Christmas Assembly scheduled for 10:15 Friday morning, December 20, in the Memorial Auditorium. There will be general carol singing led by Mr. Everett Collins. There will also be other musical numbers sung by Genevieve Murray and Frank McCarthy. One of the highlights of the affair will be a duet by Miss Murray and Mr. McCarthy. As a general Christmas present to the students, the school committee has decided rather than to open the schools for only two days, to postpone the opening until January 6 instead of January 2.

Senior Pictures

The members of the Senior Class received their individual pictures last Wednesday, December 18, in time to inflict them upon relatives and friends as Christmas presents. The pictures were taken by the Loring studios of Boston and of Lawrence.

Goldsmith Prize Speaking Contest

By this time almost everyone knows that the Goldsmith Prize Speaking Contest was won by Genevieve Murray, '47, and John Gillis, '48. Miss Murray also sang while the judges made their decision. An audience of 500 students and parents enjoyed the program.

Stoneham Game

Last Tuesday, Dec. 17, Punchard lost by one point the Stoneham game. The final score was 23-22, and as the final horn blew, a groan went up from the Punchard students in the audience. But then, we can't win all the time.

Reopening

Not much fear of this happening, but just in case they do, the students should remember that school does not reopen until January 6, instead of the scheduled January 3. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all from the students of Punchard!!!

Junior Rings

All the sad looking faces in the Junior home rooms last Monday, was due to the fact that a good many of the students were facing the unpleasant prospect of parting with five dollars as a down payment on their class rings. Two representatives from Grecoe's jewelry store made the operation as painless as possible by saying, "Your five dollars, please?" and handing us a bunch of rings in all sizes. We struggled with them until we decided what size fitted best and then told the representative which ring of the three sizes we wanted. The three sizes are the girl's size, the boy's size, and the jumbo size. It seems that most of the boys take the jumbo size, and most of the girls take the boy's size. Of course, all three sizes have the same design. The rings should be delivered not later than April 1, and at that time we'll have to shell out another ten dollars or so.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

DREW PEARSON

PROSPECTIVE POLICY

WASHINGTON.—With Republican leaders gathering in the capital to begin organizing their own G.O.P.-ruled congress for the first time in 16 years, here is a merry-go-round view of what the country can expect during the next two years:

FOREIGN POLICY.—On the surface there will be no outward change. Later, however, important changes will become apparent. The British already are worried over our swing to the right.

BUDGET.—The three largest expenditures of government are for army-navy, veterans and service on the national debt. These can't be pruned — unless the Republicans want to cut down the army and navy, which they are not likely to do. Easiest pruning job, therefore, on foreign loans and relief. LARRA will be the first to go. A $100 million dollar loan to Italy, planned by Truman, will be ditched next. Other loans to European and Latin American countries will be axed.

This is where one change in foreign policy comes in. The Italian loan was planned in order to help struggling Italian democracy and prevent Italy's swing to Russian Communism. Midwest Republicans, many of them still privately isolationist, will veto this.

However, the end of several war-time expenditures such as price subsidies and service separation pay cuts should permit balancing the budget.

TAXES.—Despite current talk of relief for small wage earners, there will be only minor tax cuts. One of two things will happen. Either expenditures will be such as to forbid major tax reduction. Or a cut will be made in the lower brackets, after which G.O.P. congressmen, pressured by higher-bracket groups, won't be able to resist the temptation to get aboard the gravy train. If they add tax reduction for the higher brackets, it means that Truman will veto the bill.

TARIFFS.—Midwest Republicans would like to go back to the old Hoover high tariffs. Some of the Eastern Republicans from manufacturing regions will go along with them. If they get going in earnest, however, there will be a stalemate. Truman will veto.

LABOR.—One Republican faction favors immediate and outright repeal of the entire Wagner act. However, they know this would bring a veto and that the veto probably would be sustained. Another G.O.P. group wants to avoid antagonizing labor. Certain AFL leaders, especially John L. Lewis and Bill Hutchinson, carpenters' boss, helped them win the election, and they want to keep labor happy for 1948. Therefore, the following compromise is probable:

1. The Case bill will be passed once again, and this time will become law. Even if Truman vetoes, which is doubtful, southern Democrats and the strong G.O.P. majority will be able to override the White House.

2. Senator Ball's bill, putting labor unions under the anti-trust laws, also will be adopted.

IMMIGRATION.—Republicans are traditionally hostile to immigration and minority groups, and the house immigration committee now is inherited by Rep. Noah Mason of Illinois, well-known witch-hunter. Displaced persons in Europe will get little comfort from Mason. A revived and stronger "Dies committee" can be expected—probably in both houses of congress.

AGRICULTURE.—No major change in the farm program is in prospect for the next two years. However, you will hear the same cry for parity prices on farm products. Co-ordination of all farm agencies will be demanded.

ECONOMIC OUTLOOK.—Prices generally will rise during the next six months, although not so rapidly, and with some commodities such as rent controls, since state legislatures are notoriously susceptible to real estate lobbies. That, in brief, is the future G.O.P. congressional picture.

Stop TB

CAPITAL CHAFF

The big brass of the navy department has been pleading with Adm. W. M. Miller, retired, now TWA vice president, to return to his old job as chief of public information. But it's no dice. Miller quit because of meddling advice from Vice Admiral Carpenter. . . . Death in office is the only thing that has ever removed a president of the United States while serving his term.

Where There Is Light

Christmas is coming! Of course! You knew it all the time, naturally. That's why you joined a Christmas club a year ago, and why you packed away the tree ornaments and lights so carefully, and pressed the red ribbon from the front door wreath to use over again this year.

Yes, Christmas always comes. That's one thing we can be sure of in a troubled world. In spite of prejudice, hate and greed, the Christmas spirit always glows softly in the hearts of peace-loving people the world over, a reflection of the light so long ago when Jesus, the light of the world, was born.

This year, may you all have a light in your home as well as in your heart, a tangible symbol that you believe in the spirit of Christmas. And Christmas Eve, as the carols float out from our churches, the stars will twinkle from the blue-black sky and find as many answering twinkles reflected on the snow, so that everywhere we look, there is light.

Because Christmas is coming!

Driving Class Goes to Court To Hear What NOT To Do

Friday the thirteenth wasn't an unlucky day for the driving class at the high school, although the members received a demonstration in how unlucky a person can be. Owen Hinckley, who is in charge of the classroom instruction that goes along with the driving supervision by Eugene J. Fanning, took his pupils to the District Court, where they received an inkling on what can happen when a driver ignores the laws of the road.

The excursion was arranged through the kindness of Halbert W. Dow, who believes that every citizen should have a day in court—as an audience. Driving to endanger and fourth offence double parking cases were being tried, bringing home to the students that to the guiding principle of their course, "learn to drive and survive," could be added "and stay out of court—as a participator." One State vs.

local individual case was brought up because of the violator's neglect to obtain a sticker.

In one of the four remaining lessons, the driving pupils will go to Boston, where they will be given tests in reactionary timing, steering coordination, vision and glare recovery. Two movies have already been shown in the classroom and the students are showing rapid progress as a result of the coordinated instruction, field trips and practical experience. One of the members was proud to relate that he has driven the family car to Lawrence—with the family in it, of course.

Parent enthusiasm has grown as the lessons have progressed and a sufficient number of cars have now been volunteered for each class. The next session will be held January 8.

He had picked up at Elizabeth Arden's, Harriet Hubbard Ayer's, Orloff's, Yardley's, Hudnut's, Revlon's, Old South's, Prince Matchabelli's, Bombi's, 4711's,— there he found many almost irresistible toiletry items for the ladies, and at some of the houses he packed away shaving bowls, after-shave lotions, talcs and colognes for the men-folks . . . later he dropped in at Courtley's and Charbert's and Sportsman's for some more of those very handsome but masculine-looking shaving delights that you see advertised so much in magazines like Esquire . . .

Then his reindeer having rested from that daylight trip that they made to Andover in last week's Townsman, back they came with their packs loaded, and now Hartigan's looks as if Santa left all the toiletries in that one store . . . golly, they're all over the place . . . you can't look anywhere but what you see something you want to buy for someone . . . Blue Grass, Black Magic, Ultra-Violet, Pink Clover, Lavender, Primitive Red, Violet Sec, all in colorful array . . . Flower Mist, Tweed, Shanghai, Miracle, Attar of Petals, Flower Pot Pourri, Yu, It's You, Petals, all the fragrances you've been hearing about . . . there's face powder, dusting powder, sachets, bath salts, bath oil, bath soap, hand lotions, toilet water, perfume, nail polish, bath mitts, — but why not come in and see them . . . and the prices? . . . the same standard prices you'd pay in a big city, and you won't run into a shopping jam here in Andover . . . oh, we almost forgot — some nice jewelite Nylon hairbrushes to look at for a person who will be look at . . . now don't wait too late closing at one on Christmas Day . . . where Hartigan's is, of course, at the Chestnut and Main . . . you'll notice the reflection from the sparkling gifts anyway.

Santa also left — gifts lovely even lovelier to . . . we're you know corner of probably
